

NEMOSANCTI

New Models of Sanctity in Italy (1960s-2000s) — A Semiotic Analysis of Norms, Causes of Saints, Hagiography, and Narratives

AboutTeamResearch and PublicationsNewsSemioPillsSemiotics of ReligionContact

At the “Seminar on the basis of theory of signification” of Prof. Francesco Marsciani

Our team member Francesco Galofaro, semiotician, is participating the Seminar on the basis of theory of signification (Seminario sui fondamenti di teoria della significazione), organized by Francesco Marsciani, semiotician (University of Bologna, Department of Arts). The seminar will take place online on Friday April 17th 2020.

Read more

Recent Posts

On Futura Magazine

NeMoSanctI has been presented on FUTURA, the magazine of the master in journalism of the University of Turin. The article is available at the following link: Jenny Ponzio interviewed by Jacopo [...]

At the “Seminar on the basis of theory of signification” by Prof. Francesco Marsciani

Our team member Francesco Galofaro, semiotician, is participating the Seminar on the basis of theory of signification (Seminario sui fondamenti di teoria della significazione), organized by Francesco Marsciani, semiotician (University [...])

#SemioPills 7: Heidi Campbell

Heidi A. Campbell teaches media studies on themes related to media theory, global and popular

WHAT IS NEMOSANCTI?

NeMoSanctI is a research project carried out at the University of Turin. It studies how models of sanctity have changed after the Second Vatican Council. To this end, it applies a pioneering methodology based on semiotic theory to a wide corpus of normative, judicial, and narrative texts. This project has received culture and media & religion. Her research focuses on how religion is translated and transformed [...]

At the permanent seminar “I santi internauti”

Research team members Gabriele Marino, semiotician, and Marco Papisidero, historian of Christianity, are participating in the permanent seminar I santi internauti, organized by Daniele Solvi, philologist, and Claudia Santi, historian [...]

#SemioPills 6: Jenny Ponzo

Jenny Ponzo is Associate Professor of Semiotics at the University of Turin (Italy). She is the Principal Investigator of the ERC research project NeMoSanctI. She is the Director of the [...]

Article – The semiotics of litanies from the Middle Ages to the YouTube era (2020)

NeMoSanctI members Jenny Ponzo, Francesco Galofaro and Gabriele Marino are proud to be part of this beautiful publication from Brill dedicated to the subject of the litany: The Litany in [...]

#SemioPills 5: Daniele Solvi

Daniele Solvi (1971) è professore aggregato di Letteratura latina medievale e umanistica presso l'Università della Campania “Luigi vanvitelli”, ed è membro del Consiglio direttivo dell'AISSCA (Associazione Italiana per lo Studio [...])

Book – Cassone, Ponzo, Thibault (2020 Eds.) Languagescapes. Ancient and Artificial Languages in Today's Culture (Aracne)

Vincenzo Idone Cassone, Jenny Ponzo, Mattia Thibault (2020 Eds.) Languagescapes. Ancient and Artificial Languages in Today's Culture (Aracne, Rome) Ancient and artificial languages have many roles and uses across cultures [...]

Hosting a conference by Prof. Emanuele Fadda about Roland Barthes

NeMoSanctI is hosting a conference by Prof. Emanuele Fadda (Università della Calabria) entitled Perché Barthes oggi. Lo sguardo semiotico e l'orecchio linguistico. The conference will take place at Aula 2, Palazzo Nuovo, [...]

Panel “Agiografie pop: dagli ex voto ai meme” at the conference “Comunicare funding from the European Research Council (ERC) under the European Union's Horizon 2020 research and innovation programme (grant agreement No 757314).

CATEGORIES

Call for Papers (2)
 Events (35)
 News (9)
 Press Review (6)
 Public engagement (9)
 Publications (7)
 Research (13)
 Semiotics of Religion (26)
 Video (9)
 Website (6)

RECENT POSTS

On Futura Magazine

At the “Seminar on the basis of theory of signification” by Prof. Francesco Marsciani

#SemioPills 7: Heidi Campbell

At the permanent seminar “I santi internauti”

#SemioPills 6: Jenny Ponzo

FOLLOW US ON

la santità" (Rome, Jan. 21-23, 2020)

NeMoSanctI is participating in the conference "Comunicare la santità" ("Communicating Sanctity"), organized by AISSCA-Associazione italiana per lo studio della santità, dei culti e dell'agiografia (The Italian Association for the study [...])