Dear all,

I am sure you will blame me for the frequency of my messages, but this is my duty. Sorry.

Since the workshop of 17th November has been approved, we have to choose the exact titles for our presentations, within the subject which has been indicated in the draft.

Due to the concentration of talks on the Bronze Age, I have tried to interpret a possible choice, but please feel free to change my proposal. I only ask Dr Biscione and Dr Vahdati to treat also the transition to the Iron Age.

As I told you, the talks will be in English and Farsi, respectively by the Italian and Iranian archaeologists, and the Embassy of Italy will arrange a simultaneous translation.

The audience can be composite, so I suggest to avoid too technicalities without leaving a scientific level. A power point presentation can help, and I will be grateful if the presentations are given before the beginning of the sessions.

As you see in the programme, each group has 30 minutes and the question and discussion will be concentrated at the end of the morning and afternoon sessions.

I ask the Italian co-directors to involve their Iranian counterparts, so that there is no loss of time during the workshop due to lack of agreement. I am not writing to the Iranian co-directors proposedly because this is part of each group.

Finally I wish to thank once again dr Nokandeh for his hospitality in the National Museum premises and for his active support to the initiative.

Best wishes,

Pierfrancesco
